Improving Safety Outcomes, Enhancing Productivity

RightCrowd Random Drug & Alcohol Testing

> Designed to automate random drug and alcohol testing, ensuring that staff have no indication prior to entry that a random test might be required

Could your organization improve safety outcomes with randomized drug and alcohol testing regimes? For many organizations, drug and alcohol impairment are major workplace issues, impacting safety, productivity and regulatory compliance.

With RightCrowd, a worker can be randomly selected for drug and alcohol testing at the point of site entry. If they have been selected, their access card will be temporarily disabled in the access control system. When the selected individual tries to use their access card to enter the work site, staff will be immediately alerted. The worker can then be escorted to the testing center.

The selection process is automated and completely random. It can be clearly demonstrated to staff, unions and government regulators, that the process is not discriminatory. As a result, the RightCrowd solution is acceptable to all stakeholders.

RightCrowd works with Fortune 50 companies simplifying and automating the processes that govern security, safety and compliance.

RANDOM TESTING SELECTION PROCESS

Clearly demonstrated to be non-discriminatory, and testing can occur at any time.
